

SOCIETY FOR WOMEN'S HEALTH RESEARCH POLICY ADVISORY COUNCIL

Become a Member Today!

The Society for Women's Health Research (SWHR) Policy Advisory Council is a forum for health care and industry thought leaders to collaborate with SWHR to support and promote emerging scientific research and public policy measures that advance women's health.

SWHR's policy efforts focus on securing robust investments in women's health research and ensuring the diverse representation of women in clinical trials; improving women's health across the lifespan; ensuring coverage and access to care; and strengthening the biomedical research workforce.

Membership Overview:

Policy Advisory Council members have the opportunity to work collaboratively to inform policy positions; engage with SWHR, other women's health stakeholders, and health care decision makers; and identify gaps and opportunities across women's health.

As a member, you will join a diverse and influential group of senior-level policy, advocacy, government affairs, communications, and commercial professionals who are dedicated to advancing women's health. Your unique perspective and expertise are invaluable in helping SWHR achieve its mission and policy goals.

Quarterly 2026 Meeting Dates:

- March 4, 2026
- June 17, 2026
- September 16, 2026
- December 9, 2026

2026 Membership Dues:

Annual dues: $25,000

Member Benefits:

- Annual one-on-one meetings with SWHR's President and CEO and Policy Team to align on shared priorities, identify partnership opportunities, and elevate your organization's policy concerns.
- Curated member-only women's health policy briefs that deliver timely insights.
- Bi-annual office hours with the SWHR Policy Team and annual strategy roundtable to ensure your input is heard.
- Attend SWHR's quarterly Policy Advisory Council meetings, featuring thought leaders and decision makers addressing critical women's health policy issues.
- Engage in policy discussions and contribute your expertise on an ad hoc basis, helping to shape SWHR's advocacy efforts.
- Network with esteemed scientific and policy thought leaders, as well as decision-makers in the women's health care and research space.
- Collaborate with SWHR to drive strategic initiatives and advocacy campaigns that inform key stakeholders and the public about women's health policy
- Leverage SWHR's policy and regulatory analysis to stay informed on federal developments from key federal agencies and legislative bodies, including developments in Congress and across the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services
- Receive well-deserved recognition as a member of the Policy Advisory Council on SWHR's website, in reports, on social media, and in our Annual Awards Gala program.

Be an Advocate for Women's Health Policy

Become a member of the Policy Advisory Council today and play a crucial role in shaping women's health policies and driving meaningful change.

Questions about the Policy Advisory Council or how to join?

Are you from a nonprofit or patient advocacy group interested in joining the Council?

Reach out to SWHR's Development Team at development@swhr.org.